Holy Day This Friday

This Friday, November 1st, is the Feast of All Saints, a Holyday of Obligation. There will be a vigil Mass at 5:30 pm Thursday evening, as well as Masses at 11:30 am and 5:30 pm on the Feast Day. The Prayer Ministry Team will be meeting after the 11:30 am Mass if anyone would like to be prayed for or upon.

October Rosary Rally for Vocations

The rosary rally for vocations this October is seeking to pray 75,000 rosaries to encourage young men and women discerning priesthood and religious life. Pray the rosary, then log it at Omahavocations.org.

Thirtieth Sunday in Ordinary Time
October 27, 2024

Thank You, Thank You, Thank You!!!!

We cannot adequately express in words our gratitude to ALL who helped make our Spaghetti Dinner a success! Whether you organized, ordered, scheduled, helped with prep work, worked at the dinner, helped with cleanup, ate the food... We are grateful for all of you and all you did! God Bless!

Cabrini Family Potluck Dinner Next Sunday

Let's gather together for a Cabrini Family Potluck Dinner next Sunday, November 3rd, from 6-8 pm. Pulled Pork will be provided. Please bring a side dish, salad or dessert to accompany the pork. Invite your small group, those you sit next to in church, neighbors and friends—all are welcome. Our speaker will be Fr. Nick Albin, S.J. (Fr. Nick often fills in for Fr. Damian when he needs to be away). Doors will be open at 5 pm for those dropping food off before Mass.

Rectory Open House Next Sunday

Fr. Damian is hosting an Open House at the new condo, which is serving as our parish rectory, from 1 pm to 3 pm next Sunday, November 3rd. The new rectory is located in the Dunsany Building. The address is 1115 South 10th Street, #9, about two blocks north of the church building. The condo is located on the third floor and there are no elevators.

Movie Night at St. Frances Cabrini

Don't forget Wednesday, November 6th, is Movie Night at St. Frances Cabrini, celebrating St. Frances Cabrini's Feast Day (actual feast day is November 13th). We will be watching the 2024 film Cabrini. We will gather at 6:30 pm in the Cabrini Center gym (1248 S. 10th Street). All are welcome to join us! If you haven't seen it, here is a sneak peek... 2025 Mass Intention Forms

The 2025 Mass Intention Forms have been placed in the back of church and may be completed and returned to the Cabrini Parish Center (mailed in, delivered personally, or placed in an envelope marked "Mass Intentions" and put in the weekend collection basket). We would appreciate initial forms for the year be turned in by December 15, 2024. These forms may also be filled out and turned in at anytime during the year. A suggested donation of $10 per Mass (though more or less may be given) should accompany the form.

30th Sunday in Ordinary Time

“And Jesus said to him, ‘Go your way; your faith has made you well.’ And immediately he received his sight and followed him on the way.” (MARK 10:52)

Faith is believing in something even though you may not be able to physically see it. Many people think that miracles don't happen anymore. This is hard, but try to focus on the positive and not the negative things in your life. When you focus on your blessings instead of your hardships, miracles will seem common. You will see God's active presence in your daily life. You will begin to develop an attitude of gratitude

Pastor's Letter

Dear Friends,

Thanks to everyone who helped with the Fall Spaghetti Dinner. As always, people had a great time working together and welcoming guests from all over the city. I enjoy being one of the official schmoozers. Gives me a chance to connect with friends old and new and to promote All Saints School. If you were at the dinner, then you saw the students from All Saints working the tables providing water and coffee and doing clean-up. They worked hard and were quite polite while doing it.

The schmoozing also has me encountering all kinds of questions and stories that arise in the lives of people. One issue that came up a couple times on Sunday was the question of how to respond to adult children who have decided that they are atheists. They said their children told them that they came to that decision because they could find no tangible proof for the existence of a God.

While I respect people's search for a God, I think people often give up too soon. Today, I ran across an interview of Michel-Yves Bollere who recently published in Europe a major work entitled God: The Science, The Evidence. The preface is written by Nobel prize winner and physicist Robert Wilson, and around 30 other scientists, from a variety of fields, contributed to the book. It is being translated into English. For those of you who have friends or children who are atheist, here are a few things he said in the interview:

From the Renaissance until 1900, from Copernicus to Freud, all the discoveries seemed to say that it was possible to explain our world and the universe without a creator God. After Copernicus came Galileo, then Newton, Laplace, and then Buffon – who told us that the Earth is much more than a few thousand years old – and then evolution, with Lamarck and Darwin...All the intellectuals thought that the more we know, the more science we have, the more it is certain that “God is dead” and does not exist at all. Surprisingly, though, exactly the opposite happened. After 1900, one discovery after the other has done exactly the opposite, saying that it is no longer possible to explain our universe without a creator God. And this is a story that we want to tell people, that for four centuries people have told you that the science says that God does not exist, and now it is the opposite, and science is providing evidence that there is a creator God.

After talking about the differences between the view that there was a creator and the view that “it” just happened he says: It is interesting that we continue to speak of believers and non-believers, because that is completely wrong. We who believe in the theory of God's existence, know what we believe. But the materialists don't realize that they are placing their belief in things that are completely crazy. They believe that our universe has no beginning, when almost everything demonstrates the opposite; they have to believe in a multiverse, which is science-fiction science; and they have to believe that life appeared from matter, which seems very difficult. Saying that our book defends the reasonability of the existence of God is not enough. There are two plates on the scales, one has plenty of evidence, and another, for materialism, is completely empty, so the reasonability today is to hold and believe that God exists.

The book apparently goes through the evidence and he concludes, you might be tempted to think that there is nothing one can do, because you will never have certainty. But when you have a set of several pieces of evidence, coming from different fields of knowledge, all in the same direction, then you can say “Yes, I have a certainty.” The same applies in justice, where people are convicted based on evidence that provides certainty “beyond any reasonable doubt.” This is where we are. We cannot say we are giving a demonstration of the existence of God, because this is impossible, but we can say that science and reason are bringing much independent and converging evidence that God exists.

Surprisingly, a section of the book is about the miracle at Fatima which was witnessed by more than sixty thousand people – believers and unbelievers alike. He says in the interview, Now, if you take the miracle of Fatima itself, there are only five reasonable explanations, without God: one, nothing happened; two, a meteorological event; three, a cosmological event; four, a collective hallucination; or five, fraud. There is nothing else. If you can discount all of these possibilities, then there is only a supernatural explanation. If we are being reasonable, why should we refuse that?

I look forward to reading it when it is published in English and then I will have something to give those who think their search for God has ended.

Peace,

Fr. Damian
