Stewardship Reflection for Corpus Christi, June 7, 2026

"Because there is one bread, we, who are many, are one body, for we all partake of the one bread."

1 CORINTHIANS 10:17

As disciples of Jesus, we are called to lead holy lives and invite others to join us. We are called to be fed and to feed others. Living a stewardship lifestyle, being grateful and generous with our gifts, serves a twofold purpose. One, it helps build God's kingdom here on earth. Two, it helps us strengthen each other's relationship with God the Father, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit. It becomes our roadmap to Heaven. Let's help each other get there!

More than the money...

A simple request for rent help led to a deeply moving encounter. After years of fighting addiction, "C" was sober but entirely alone, having lost custody of her three children and the trust of her family.

Her life shifted when she discovered she was pregnant. Facing this crisis alone, she planned on adoption until she says she heard God's voice telling her to keep the baby. Today, her almost two-year-old child has restored her sense of purpose.

"C" wants to reconnect with her Catholic faith and find a safe, welcoming community for her and her child. We invited her to Cabrini. Knowing this community can offer much more than emergency financial aid. We are opening our hearts and welcoming her to the loving spiritual family she needs to heal and thrive.

Pastor's Letter

Dear Friends,

In this, our moment in history, as humanity faces something totally new, Pope Leo has given us a teaching to guide us with a wisdom born of the Holy Spirit. The Holy Father signed Magnifica Humanitas on May 15, 2026, the 135th anniversary of Rerum Novarum. The Holy See released the text on May 25th, the Memorial of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Mother of the Church, the day after Pentecost Sunday. As Leo XIII gave the Church her foundational social encyclical for the industrial age, Leo XIV now offers the Church the foundational social encyclical for the digital age. The letter has provoked a wide response from people all over the world.

The document is substantial, two hundred and forty-five paragraphs across five chapters with 42,000 words, but it is luminous. It is magisterial teaching at its best, giving us principles, criteria, and language with which to discern, judge, and act in the historical moment we have been given.

The Holy Father frames the entire encyclical around a single biblical contrast announced in the very first paragraph:

Humanity, created by God in all its grandeur, is today facing a pivotal choice: either to construct a new Tower of Babel or to build the city in which God and humanity dwell together. Each generation inherits the task of shaping its own era, of guiding history to become a place where the dignity of every person is safeguarded, justice is promoted and fraternity is made possible. Yet every era also runs the risk of creating an inhumane and more unjust world. Whenever humanity is in danger of marring its true identity, we Christians lift our eyes to the Incarnate God, knowing that it is "only in the mystery of the Word made flesh that the mystery of humanity truly becomes clear." In Jesus Christ, this humanity in its grandeur becomes the Way, the Truth and the Life, opening the path for each of us to grow toward fullness.

The image is not fluff or overly spiritual. It is the interpretive key to the remainder of the encyclical. The Tower of Babel is the technological project conceived without reference to God — a project of self-affirmation marked by a single language, a single direction, a single grandiose ambition that sacrifices human persons to efficiency and ends. Despite its towering aspiration, it ends in dispersion and chaos. Against Babel, Pope Leo places the rebuilding of Jerusalem by Nehemiah after the Babylonian exile. Nehemiah does not impose solutions from above. He fasts, prays, and intercedes before he acts. He calls together families and assigns each one a section of the wall. He rebuilds relationships before he rebuilds with stones. The city is reborn through the shared responsibility of all: men, women, priests, artisans, heads of households, the young and the old. We are being invited to choose either the tower of dominance or the wall of communion. The Holy Father is telling us that this is the choice before us in the age of artificial intelligence — and each of us has been assigned a section of the wall.

I hope you take the opportunity this summer to read the letter. For a document from the Vatican, it is quite readable even though it is a bit long. I will be offering you reflections this summer in this space based on the encyclical. So, even if you do not read the whole thing, you will get the essential parts.

Peace,

Fr. Damian

Fall Alpha for All Ages Begins September 17th!

Alpha is a series of interactive sessions that freely explore the meaning of life and the basics of the Christian faith in a friendly, open, informal environment. It is for everyone! Some comments from past Alpha courses: "I wanted to learn more about faith and gained community and family", "refreshing to openly talk about faith with people—I loved it", "I see that many people are like me—looking for more", "loved small group discussions and conversations at dinner" and "food is excellent". Alpha runs Tuesdays at the Cabrini Parish Center gym from 6-8 pm, September 15th through November 17th, with a retreat day on October 24th. It's free. It includes a full meal (we do accept free will donations to help cover food costs). For questions or to register, contact Annie Wise at amwise@archomaha.org. Registration forms can also be found at the back of Church and can be added to the offertory collection baskets or sent/brought to the Cabrini Parish Center.
